“DigitalGlobe, Inc. is an imagery and information company. In 2001, DigitalGlobe launched the QuickBird satellite, which at 2-foot pixel resolution is the highest resolution commercial imaging satellite in the world. Since January 2002, following the launch of QuickBird, DigitalGlobe has been in full commercial operations to supply imagery products and services to customers worldwide. In the first quarter of 2006, DigitalGlobe will launch two additional satellites with sensors capable of capturing 19-inch pixel resolution imagery. The addition of these sensors will complement the current capabilities of the QuickBird satellite and improve the capability of DigitalGlobe to revisit global locations on a daily basis. “
